

True or False?

A Tudor School Day

The Tudor school day started at 6am

Tudors went to school on Saturdays

Schools for young children were called Petty schools

No girls went to school in Tudor times

Grammar schools only taught you about grammar

Naughty children were punished by being whipped

You were allowed to bring a sword to school

There were six week holidays in the summer so children could help at home

There were only two universities in England in Tudor times